Nutrition-wise, guavas may be one of the healthiest fruits. In fact, it has been dubbed by nutritionists as a "super fruit." It provides more than 600% of the daily requirement of Vitamin C, which can help the body ward off infections as well as minimize cell damage done by free radicals. In addition, the fiber in guavas contributes to a healthy digestive system. Other nutrients that can be obtained from eating guavas include Vitamin A, B-complex vitamins, various minerals, antioxidants and flavonoids that are not only anti-aging but aids in the prevention of diseases.
